be the change.

Janine Schindler

Janine's expertise as a Master Certified Coach (MCC) comes from her experience working for global consulting firms as a Practice Leader and Business Development Director servicing some of the world's largest and most established brands. Her clients include the C-Suite and Senior Executives who want immediate impact and sustained results. From high-growth companies to Fortune 500 companies, Janine is known as an expert in coaching, providing both intervention and high performance development for individuals, teams and organizations. She believes in facilitating positive change by helping professionals improve their thinking and giving guidance to organizations on how to improve more than just the bottom line.

As both a trainer and facilitator, Janine runs programs for organizations on leadership, manager as coach, and team building. She is part of the New York University's coaching faculty and curriculum development team and teaches Business Coach Training, Intensive Coach Training, Executive Coach Training and Theoretical Foundations of Coaching for an ICF accredited privately owned global organization (Results Coaching Systems).
